Your Google review kit

Prepared for Drew Berger, Berger Landscaping LLC. Google counts your reviews when it decides who shows up in Maps searches around Pottstown. Everything below points customers to the same place: your Google review box, one tap away.

1. On your new website

- Leave a review button on the Home page and the Reviews page. It opens your Google review box directly; no searching for your listing.
- Your Google reviews (5.0, 5 reviews) shown on the Home and Reviews pages, with your replies, so new customers see them right away.
- The site is in preview now. The button goes live on bergerlandscaping.net at launch; the cards and texts below work today.

2. Review cards (page 1 of this file)

- 10 business-card-size cards per sheet. Print on card stock and cut along the marks.
- Hand one over with every invoice, or leave one at the door after the job. Customers scan the QR code with their phone camera.
- A single-card file is included for a print shop, plus the QR code alone for invoices or a truck magnet.

3. After-job text messages

Same day as the job: “Hi [Name], this is Drew from Berger Landscaping. Thanks for having us out today! If you have a minute, a Google review really helps a small local business like mine: [link] Thanks again, and call or text anytime.”

Recurring customer: “Hi [Name], Drew from Berger Landscaping here. Thanks for sticking with us this season! If you’ve got a minute, would you leave us a quick Google review? It makes a big difference for a small business: [link]”

4. A few rules that keep reviews working

- Ask every customer, not only the happy ones. Google does not allow asking only customers you expect to be positive.
- No discounts or freebies for reviews. Google removes incentivized reviews.
- Ask the same day, while the job is fresh in the customer's mind.
- Reply to every review on Google, good or bad. Customers read the replies.
